For particular choices of coupling functions, we show that the largest Lyapunov exponent, which marks the asymptotic growth of perturbations, vanishes in the thermodynamic limit. The evolution of the node distribution converges to a stable fixed point for different choices of coupling functions, showing a non-Gaussian character. The evolution of the node distribution during the "Heisenberg time" (characterized by nonuniversal behavior of the Lyapunov exponent) for these choices of coupling functions is studied. Our results indicate that the supernumerary nodes can be identified by the level statistics of a Gaussian Orthogonal Ensemble.Q: Custom search using get_queryset() in ModelAdmin - custom backend
