Online features, Match Centers, Clubs, League Update, and single-player tutorial content are all informed by the game's motion capture technology, which is a first for the series. The data also provides a great opportunity for the developers to uncover major improvements to the soccer AI, with the objective being to develop a smarter, more refined and adaptable in-game soccer AI. FIFA Director of Gameplay Jay Kumar states: "Combining scientific insights and our cutting-edge tools, we've been able to create a new and superior version of FIFA's soccer AI. From in-game AI behavior to new animation and collision systems, we've managed to place the right information in the right places to make players and coaches smarter, faster and more accurate." With the new AI, the game's reactive players and coaches are now smarter and much more aware of the opposition's attack, as well as the challenges they face in particular situations. The FIFA Ultimate Team roster update is the biggest addition to this year's edition, with over 1,000 new players and 1,200 new packs added to the game. These packs are filled with rare and valuable player cards, giving players the chance to get more out of the game's $99.99 update by purchasing these packs in order to try and unlock the more valuable rewards. The Ultimate Team improvements are the most impressive of all the new features, with packs more carefully selected to produce teams with elite player value. Players from the English Premier League and Serie A are also included at a lower value in this update, with individuals such as Paul Pogba (Manchester United), Manuel Lanzini (West Ham), Edin Dzeko (Manchester City), and Alejandro Moreno (Newcastle) among the top football players added to the game. The pack system is also being heavily revamped, with packs from last year being replaced with better-rewarding ones. These new packs contain more rare player cards and sell for higher amounts, and in some cases, the packs are put together with players who have recently retired or left the game. Another feature that is particularly useful for competitive FIFA Ultimate Team players is the introduction of the FIFA Game App, which will monitor a player's gameplay, find out when they're inactive, and notify them of how many hours
